patients, &c. Mr. Ellis also undertakes all kinds of Medical, Surgical, or mortuary photographs.

I DO not think that any one of my readers will begrudge a word of sympathy to Dr. Forbes Winslow, who, in spite of having already received more than his full measure of troubles, has lost his eldest son—a bright, smart, clever, gentlemanly fellow of twenty-three—Mr. Percy Forbes Winslow, who was honorary secretary to the St. John's Ambulance Association at Hammersmith, and had all the promise of a useful and energetic life before him. It is suspected that blood-poisoning was the cause of his death. His fellow students at Charing Cross Hospital and his other many friends are deeply concerned at his loss.

IT appears that certain Hospitals are not alone in their inefficiency in respect to accommodation and management, I read in a contemporary that: "A letter was read from Miss Minahan, laundry maid at Mitcham, resigning her appointment, and objecting to the sleeping accommodation provided by the laundry maids at the schools. Mr. Dixie said a disgraceful state of things existed at the schools with regard to this matter. Seven young women were obliged to sleep in one room. They had asked leave of the Local Government Board to build sleeping accommodation over the laundry, but this was refused." With all due respect I don't quite think that sleeping accommodation over a laundry offers much inducement to robust health.

I AM glad to notice that on the occasion of the recent visit to Derby, Her Majesty the Queen was presented, with an address (among many others), from the Nurses of the Derby and Derbyshire Nursing Association.

MISS JANE P. GALLOWAY, who has just been appointed to the important post of Lady Superintendent of the Northern Counties' Hospital for Incurables Manchester (Malmesley House, Bury, Lancashire), has had a most practical course of experience. She was trained in the Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh, and whilst there was awarded the post of Staff Nurse in a large A edical Ward; after which the Matronship of the Longmore Hospital for Incurables in the same city was offered to her and duly accepted and held by Miss Galloway for eleven years. Wishing to have some months' rest from Hospital work, this lady resigned that post in June last year, and at her resignation received very handsome and gratifying presents from the Directors, Patients, Nurses, and Servants. We wish Miss Galloway every success in her new duties.

THOSE of my readers who are interested in manufactures pertaining to health and comfort would perhaps like to know what I think of the "Warren Hose Supporter." It seems to have been the one great object of its inventors to introduce for one's wear an article that is both useful and health-sustaining, it being so constructed that on each side in the waist-bands straps of elastic have been inserted, thus giving the limbs all the freeness of movement that is required, whilst at the same time doing all that is claimed for it in the way of support. S. G.

POST-CARD EXAMINATIONS.

WE are pleased to be able to announce that in the twontieth of this series of examination questions,

"What would you do in a case of Epistaxis, or Bleeding at the Nose?" MISS KEEVIL, whose card we reproduce, has secured the prize of a book or books of the value of five shillings :---

Miss Theevill South Trew Horle Weston S. Mare Nhat would you do in a case of Crustaxes or Bleeding from the More: a great deal of good, care should be taken not to stop it unless excossive, in a slight attach the bleeding is often staunched by simply pressing the nostrils with the fingers, or placing a plug of wadding in the bleeding nostil. If this does not succeed, cay the hatient down with the head hightly raised, + apply eitherite or cloths dipped in cold water to the nape of the neck, also across the hands above the head, taise the hands above the head, Syrings with ceed water, or a solution of align about 2 drachms to a pt of water of the of the deeding to the staget of the staget of water of a doctor. "Jam a subscriber"

