

benighted Hospital? The condition of things is pitiable, and, without exaggeration, the Nurses are worked and starved almost to death, and the patients consequently greatly neglected, not willingly on the part of the Nurses, but because, worn out with sixteen hours' duty, and working on insufficient food, it is impossible to do justice to sick persons, and even under more favourable circumstances, one woman cannot nurse from twenty to thirty severe Medical and surgical patients. As a "Student" remarks, the condition of affairs has been long an open secret, and if the Committee have not known it, the fault is their own for knowing nothing of the rules of the Hospital and the condition of the Nurses and Probationers for whom they are responsible. It is the case of "the London" over again. All details and absolute power left in the hands of a few officials, who either do not, or will not, understand the requirements of a modern Nursing department. But in our case, the Medical Staff are in sympathy with us, and will, I don't doubt, for the sake of patients and Nurses, see the department reorganised. What is required is a Nursing Committee of ladies and gentlemen, who will devote time, thought, and experience, to the management of the Nursing School, and they must be men and women who will take the trouble to study and master the subject, and not "heaven-born geniuses." Many Nurses in Glasgow have said with King Richard, "My kingdom for a Hunter."—Yours, &c.,

A GLASGOW NURSE.

REPLIES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Country Matron.—As you find difficulty in dieting the paying patients, I should advise you to take the Table, a penny weekly publication. In it you will find many useful recipes by Mrs. A. B. Marshall. "The Market Table" you will find most helpful, as by it you can keep an eye on the prices charged by your tradesmen. Never contract for food, unless you wish to be provided with inferior articles.

Mrs. Forrester.—We know no Hospital which gives its Nurses a month's holiday; but the majority of the London Hospitals have this year increased the holidays from two to three weeks for Nurses and Probationers, and four weeks to Sisters (the head Nurses). If parents would take the same interest in the welfare of their daughters as in that of their sons, the evils which are still rampant in some of our large Hospitals would soon cease to exist. Parents should make careful inquiries from the Hospital authorities concerning bedroom and washing accommodation, diet, holidays, and if Nurse Pupils are under the protection of the Committee, or are liable like domestic servants, (only without the advantage of a month's notice), to be discharged by the Matron. Wise mothers also will desire to see over the Nursing Home and Wards, just as their husbands would investigate before they decided which Medical School their sons should enter. It should also be ascertained whether the Nurse Pupil receives systematic training in the Wards of the Hospital for the full term of two or three years, for which she is bound to the Hospital, or if, after gaining a smattering of Nursing knowledge, she is liable to be sent out of the Hospital to nurse private cases, and thus to earn money for the Hospital.

Probationer (Bristol).—Send to Parker and Co., 145, Oxford Street, W., for a sample of the celebrated "Ward Shoes." They are noiseless and durable, and would save Nurses much suffering with their feet if they obtained them before they began Hospital work.

Private Nurse.—You will find Jaeger's pure merino sheets and pillow-cases the very thing for the patient you mention. They are rather expensive, but most comfortable for chilly persons. Pocket-handkerchiefs of the same material are also largely used.

CARVER & CO.'S NOISELESS NURSES' SHOES.
