

apparatus is so well-known to our readers as not to require amplification at our hands, but any of those who may require the aid of orthopædic appliances should send to Messrs. Coxeter for their illustrated list of prices, &c.

“Y. AND N.” CORSETS (Messrs. Young and Neilson, 11 and 12, Portland Square, and Norfolk Avenue, Bristol).—“In consequence of the greatly-increased demand for the “Y. and N.” patent corsets, the manufacturers have added an adjoining factory to their premises, in which they are at present engaged in putting down a large quantity of new machinery, as well as more driving power. With a corresponding addition to their staff of operatives, they expect shortly to be in a position to double the present out-put, and thereby avoid that delay in the execution of orders which has lately caused so much inconvenience to their customers.”

THE “S. S.” SALIVARIUM (Mr. Wm. Jones, 203, Old Christchurch Road, Bournemouth) is an exceedingly useful article (as illustrated below),

made in ornamental tin. The lid can be easily removed, and consequently is readily cleansed. There is, of course, no danger of breaking.

SAVON DES PRINCES DU CONGO (Victor Vaissier, Paris and Roubaix).—These exquisite manufactures, which are thoroughly in keeping with the high reputation of M. Victor Vaissier, are perhaps the finest and most carefully-prepared soaps we have yet had to examine and test. They are made with single, double, and triple extract perfume. Each cake is consequently delightfully fragrant. This soap is remarkably free from anything that is likely to injure the skin. It is sufficiently hard not to be wasteful, and leaves a pleasant and softening feeling after use. We cannot too highly recommend it.

FROM MESSRS. ROBINSON AND CLEAVER, Belfast, we have received further specimens of their manufactures. Flaxen Lace, bleached and unbleached, made of strong linen thread; Washing Lace, White Lace, and Real Torchon Lace (unbleached). Everlasting trimming and pretty colours of a fancy flannel, guaranteed to be of the best quality, made in pure wool and warranted not to shrink. We have also a specimen of their made-up shirts, their own make, and woven by hand, at six shillings and elevenpence apiece—a very marvel of cheapness and quality.

THE SANITARY KNITTED CORSET COMPANY'S Manufactures (44, Mansfield Road, Nottingham).—These specialities, like all this company's manufactures, are of unusually good make—of course, in various qualities. The Sanitary Towels, and Ladies' and Children's Knitted Corsets, from this firm need no recommendation at our hands. A very useful little article is a woollen and chenille cape, prettily made for the house, garden, and theatre. For this it is claimed that they do not slip off like ordinary ones. The Greenlander Cap, knitted with the best 8-ply

Scotch fingering yarn, in all colours and mixtures, is especially useful. Indeed, we cannot but heartily recommend it to travellers. We advise

previous page

next page