

will have but to send the required measurements by post to obtain a perfectly-fitting dress. Messrs. E. and R. Garrould have taken into consideration all minor details of a Nurse's uniform, and displayed equal care and artistic taste on them, as their "Sister Victoria" and "Sister Mabel" caps will show. These sell at one shilling and ninepence and one shilling and sixpence respectively. Then there is the "Sister Grace" apron, made in substantial linen-finished cloth, with bib, brace-straps, and large pocket, complete for two shillings and sixpence. Nor do we wish to forget the collars and the cuffs, specially manufactured by this firm, in which latter article they have just brought out a new shape, called "Sister Victoria." This cuff does not turn over to the inside of the sleeve, so that it entirely does away with the hard edges of the band, that so frequently chafe the wrists of its wearer. We have but to say that pretty bonnet or gossamer veiling can be had in any style or quality. We are informed that an illustrated "Nurses' Uniform" Catalogue is now being compiled by Messrs. E. and R. Garrould, and that it will be sent to any of our readers who apply to the firm for a copy.

"FRIZETTA" is certainly a most valuable addition to the toilet-table. This unique preparation claims that by its use the hair can be kept in curl for a much longer period than otherwise, and many testify as to the accuracy of the claim. It certainly will be found of great service to those who dress their hair in the present fashionable frizzy style, as it saves a considerable amount of trouble and time, the hair requiring to be curled far less frequently. "Frizetta" is "put up" by F. W. Bates, chemist, Brook's Bar, Manchester, and sold at one shilling and sixpence per bottle, or one shilling and ninepence post-free.

THE work of District Nursing in Wales is progressing well. The Welsh Branch of the Jubilee Institute has proved to be very successful, and its Report for 1891 shows that nearly twice as many of the sick poor were attended by its Nurses in that year than in the previous twelve months. Cardiff, thanks largely to the energy and foresight of Dr. SHEEN, is therefore taking an important part in the forward movement of District Nursing, and it is to be hoped that the rest of Wales, which has hitherto been somewhat backward in Nursing matters, may speedily follow the good example.

BAILEY'S PATENT RUBBER "COMPLEXION" BRUSH AND WASHING GLOVE is unequalled for keeping a firm, clear complexion. Its use renders the skin delightfully fresh, soft, and smooth. They are only 8s. 6d. each, and will last for years. Procurable from all Chemists, or will be sent post-free upon receipt of Postal Order by the makers, DAVID MOSLEY & SONS, 14, Aldermanbury Avenue, London, E.C.

THE QUEEN has graciously contributed £100 towards the new wing in connection with St. Mary's Hospital, which the PRINCE and PRINCESS OF WALES desire shall be known as the Clarence Memorial Wing.

THE sixth and last meeting for this Session of the Royal British Nurses' Association will take place on Friday, 20th inst., at 20, Hanover Square, at eight p.m., when Dr. HEYWOOD SMITH will read a paper on "Some Points in the Nursing of Gynæcological Cases." I don't doubt that the meeting will be large, especially as the subject is interesting, and the speaker a well-known specialist, and sincere friend of Nurses.

It is reported that Dr. GERDES, of the University of Halle, has at length discovered the long-suspected bacillus of epilepsy in the lungs, liver, kidneys and blood of a patient.

I HEAR that it is proposed to hold a Nursing Congress at Chicago next year, when a number of interesting papers will be read, written by English Nurses.

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS PRINCESS CHRISTIAN, President of the Royal British Nurses' Association, will contribute a paper on the objects, organisation, and work of this excellent association.

MISS ISLA STEWART has promised a paper on the organisation of a Nurse Training School—past, present and future. Mrs. BEDFORD FENWICK will write on "Home Hospitals"; Miss JOSEPHINE DE PLEDGE, on "Nursing in Work-house Infirmaries"; Miss EDITH KIRWAN WARD, who my readers will remember was the Nurse in attendance on the late DUKE OF CLARENCE and upon PRINCE GEORGE OF WALES, will take up the subject of "Private Nursing"; and Miss ANNESLEY KENEALY that of "Dietary for the Sick." Doubtless we shall hear of papers promised on many other Nursing subjects of great interest to the profession in general.
