Dr. Pollock's appointment he has proved himself to be very worthy of that position. I do not know any Hospital where there is more unity than in ours.

Mr. F. A. BOSANQUET: My lords, ladies, and gentlemen, may I have the honour of seconding this motion? About this time last year we lost the services of Dr. Steavenson, which we then felt it would be difficult to enclase that which we then felt it would be difficult to replace; but Dr. Rivers Pollock stepped forward, who not only by the services he has already performed, but for the reputation he brings with them, will command the esteem and ap-he brings with them, will command the esteem and approval of all. The Resolution was carried.

The Rev. J. COWARD: After the speakers who have gone before me, I have an easy and pleasant task. They had to complain, and we regret it, of the deficiency of the funds of the Hospital, but I will present to you the bright side of the picture. It has fallen to my lot to return a vote of thanks to the Medical Staff, and also to the Superproduct and Nurses. Exempled who knows so within intendent and Nurses. Everybody who knows anything at all about this Hospital will agree that it is excellently managed. As I do not live in the locality, I cannot speak from personal experience, but I am told on the good authority of a friend of mine how much the patients esteem it, both for the medical treatment they receive and the kindness they have met with at the hands of the Nurses. The public may rest assured that the money they subscribe is being applied in the best manner possible for the amelioration of the diseases for which this Hospital is peculiarly adapted.

The Rev. W. MILLER: I should like to second that resolution. I have known the Grosvenor Hospital perhaps for more years than anyone in the room, and judging by the anxiety there is to obtain "letters," I am of opinion that at no period of its existence was more confidence felt in the treatment than at the present time.

The CHAIRMAN: A vote of thanks is proposed and seconded to the Medical Staff, and to the Superintendent and Nurses.

Mr. BUTLER SMYTHE: My Lord, my colleagues and myself are grateful to you for the workmanlike manner in which you went over the Hospital yesterday. We were anxious and modest, but you were shown everything; nothing was hidden. The Hospital is small, but some big operations have been performed in it, but to improve itwe must have more money, and so next year we must step out and institute something in the way of an annual dinner if we wish to be known. We are too reticent, for we are set down in a corner of Vincent Square and escape the public gaze. One name, that of the Secretary, Captain Howard, has been left out of this agenda paper, but as he drew it up probably that accounts for the omission. It is hard to praise a man before his face, but he certainly deserves thanks for the kindly interest he has ever taken in the Hospital's affairs. I will leave it to

Mr. Anson to propose a vote of thanks to the ladies who help in the out-patients' department.

Mr. Anson: I am sure the ladies who help the out-patients deserve a very hearty vote of thanks for their self-sacrificing work, and many of the patients have given testimony to their kindness during the details of their The room the out-patients are received in is notaltogether so pleasant as it might be, for it is hot in summer and cold in winter, but the stove now there could easily be removed if someone would be good enough to replace it by another more worthy of its position.

Dr. W. RIVERS POLLOCK: I can bear testimony to the good work done by the ladies to whom Mr. Anson has alluded, and therefore I beg to second his resolution.

Viscount Cross: We cannot part without thanking our Chairman for so kindly presiding to-day. (Loud applause.)

The meeting then concluded.
