THE Pall Mall says:—

"Sufferers from nervous maladies have perhaps in store for them a method of alleviating their discomfort not dissimilar to the musical system of soothing the sick which Canon Harford has been trying to introduce. It is in the department of 'vibratory medicine' that the celebrated French doctor, M. Charcot, has hit upon his latest idea. Having noticed that patients affected by a certain form of paralysis, 'shaking palsy,' appeared to derive great benefit from long journeys by rail, M. Charcot, has caused to be constructed a sort of armchair which by an ingenious arrangement produces vibrations resembling those of a train in motion. Placed in these 'fauteuils trépidants,' the subject of M. Charcot's experiments gradually lose the chief symptoms of their disorder, and finally fall into a calm and refreshing sleep. A compatriot of M. Charcot, M. Gilles de la Tourette, has, working on the same lines, contrived a 'vibrating cap' for the transmission to the head of localized vibrations. After wearing this novel article of attire for about seven or eight minutes, a man in good health is made quite sleepy by the soft buzzing of the cap, while in cases of insomnia, bad headache, and so on, unquestionable relief is produced by its application. Each of these two clever inventions should be of service in this age of 'nerves' and over-pressure."

TOLPHITE.

(MESSRS. DODD BROS., 2, St. Andrew's Pavement, Stamford Hill, N.)

This is a carefully prepared nursery powder, perfectly impalpable, and therefore absolutely free from grit; it possesses very considerable absorbing properties, and is particularly valuable for the purpose it is intended, as it can with safety be used to the most tender skin. For wrinkled or excoriated skin surfaces it is everthing that could be desired. It is sold in boxes at sixpence each.

Fresh Pages.

Winter's Weekly (published by John Strange Winter, 98, Fleet Street, E.C.) Weekly, one penny; monthly parts, sixpence. This brightly written and truly interesting journal still holds its place among the first class literature of the day, and should find a place in every household. The ready pen of the gifted editress adds considerable lustre to its pages, and we heartily commend Winter's Weekly to all in search of healthy, fascinating literature.
