Extract from "THE LANCET," July 15th, 1893.—"Messrs. ARNOLD & SONS have introduced a new form of grip, or fastening, for an elastic tourniquet, for which a patent has been applied. It is very simple, light, and inexpensive, made in the form of a hook, but tapering towards the end, with an india-rubber ring for attachment. It can be secured or released instantaneously. By simply placing the tubing in the hook it is held firmly and securely, and by a gentle outward pull it can be immediately released."

Extract from "The MEDICAL TIMES."—"Messrs. ARNOLD & SONS have recently introduced a new form of grip, or fastening, for a tourniquet, which is well worthy the attention of Hospital Surgeons."

Extract from "The LANCET," August 12th, 1893.—"This Bed-rest, invented by Mrs. M. A. Core, is stated to be specially adapted for convalescing invalids or for acute cases of heart disease and dropsy. The back is curved (see engraving) and the pillows rest in lengthwise; two are sufficient and a third across the top affords a support for the head. The lower curved band fixes the back, leaving the lower part of the spine to rest solely on the pillows. The rest can be arranged at any angle, so that a patient may sit upright, or even lie in a recumbent position. There are brass buttons at the back, so that in the case of a long and tedious illness pillows can be more firmly secured by means of pieces of strong tape in which button-holes have been made; the pillows can be shaken without uncomfortably disturbing the patient. Messrs. ARNOLD & SONS, of West Smithfield, are the makers.
