NURSES AND CYCLING.

IN these days of universal wheeling, when every other person one meets is either a confirmed devotee of the wheel, or an embryo in the throes of learning the fascinating pastime, the example set by Guy’s Hospital in founding a Nurses’ Cycling Club is one that may well be imitated by others of our great centres of the ‘healing art.’ The authorities that be of the noble monument of ‘the pious founder’ have inaugurated this club by hiring a cottage in a district but a short distance from town, where the Sisters and Nurses can keep their machines, together with the necessary change of clothes. Thus, within half-an-hour, the members of one of the most useful, and at the same time most trying, professions open to women, will have the opportunity of finding themselves transplanted from their customary surroundings of pain and suffering into the country, with all its advantages of free breathing space, and unlimited expanse of heaven. For those who cannot afford to buy their own machines, subscriptions are invited to stock a
