

BABY'S PERFECT FOOD.

Milk Diluted with Barley Water made from

Robinson's
PATENT BARLEY
"A FINE POWDER"

J. HOBART EGBERT, Esq., A.M., M.D., writing in Health, January 5th, 1894:

"For those children who cannot properly digest cow's milk we recommend Barley Water to be mixed with it."

J. H. WHELAN, Esq., M.D., in "All about Babies," recommends—

"Barley Water as a diluent of milk to be made from Robinson's Patent Barley."

CHARLES BUTLER, Esq. (Member of the Royal College of Surgeons), in his work, "The Feeding of Infants," page 46, writes:

"Another expedient to render cow's milk more easy of digestion is to mix it with Barley Water; the latter also possesses a nutritive value of its own. The value of Barley Water cannot be too much extolled."

"The Hygiene and Dietetics of Infancy," by R. J. BLACKAM, Esq., M.D. (U.S.), L.R.C.P. (E.), etc.:

"The reason for adding Barley Water to milk is that cow's milk curdles in large pieces, whereas human milk curdles in fine threads; the addition of the Barley Water makes the mixture curdle similar to human milk."

A FINE POWDER, SOLD IN 1-lb. and  $\frac{1}{2}$ -lb. TINS.

Superior to Cod Liver Oil, Tincture of Iron, or Peptone.
