

beth, General Lying-in Hospital; Watkins, Lois Blanche, Clapham Maternity Hospital; Watson, Charlotte, British Lying-in Hospital; Wheatcroft, Sarah Elizabeth, Fram Gotla; Whitworth, Eliza Constance, Rotunda Hospital, Dublin; Wilks, Helen, Greenwich Union Infirmary; Willcox, Alice Elizabeth, City of London Lying-in Hospital; Williamson, Mary Wells, Clapham Maternity Hospital; Wilson, Alice Elizabeth Osmond, C. St. Aubyn-Farrer; Wilson, Esther, Maternity Charity, Plaistow; Wilson, Nellie, Clapham Maternity Hospital; Windridge, Annie Daisy, Royal Maternity Hospital, Edinburgh; Wood, Annie, General Lying-in Hospital; Woodnutt, Annie Florence, E. S. Hoare; Woodward, Lilian Lambe, London Hospital; Wray, Sarah Ann, Maternity Charity, Plaistow; Wright, Emma Rosina, Brighton and Hove Hospital for Women; Wynne, Annie, W. A. Haslam.

Y.—Young, Hannah, Salvation Army Maternity Hospital.

The Rudolph Virchow Hospital.

It is believed that the new Rudolf Virchow Hospital at Berlin, has grown to be the largest hospital in Europe. It is a townlet of picturesque-looking red roofs, intersected by wide avenues and narrow roads, each pavilion flanked by gravel terraces, banked with turf. The total cost of the 57 buildings which make up the hospital, together with all the fittings, has amounted to 18,868,000 marks (£943,400). There are 2,000 beds in all; 564 beds in the 11 buildings of the surgical department, 500 beds in the 10 pavilions of the medical department, 95 beds for gynaecological and 95 for obstetric cases, 19 for pregnant women, 11 beds for septic cases, 24 in the quarantine pavilion, 34 in the diphtheria pavilion, 120 in the 4 pavilions for infectious cases, 18 for restless patients, 374 in the men's department for venereal disease, and 146 in the women's. The cost of each bed is calculated at about £400. October 1st has been fixed for the opening of the hospital in all its departments. Besides perpetuating Rudolf Virchow's name in this magnificent hospital, the Berlin municipality mean to honour the memory of him to whose initiative and energy Berlin owes its position as one of the most sanitary of modern cities by the erection of a monument.

Holiday Homes.

A reader says: "Nurses wanting a cheap country holiday can get it at Mrs. Harington's, 105, Reigate Hill, Reigate, Surrey. The country is lovely and the house most comfortable."

Another writes: "I have enjoyed a rest at the Nurses' Holiday Home, 12, Sussex Square, Brighton, and had a most happy time. A feature of the Home is the delightful quiet to be enjoyed on the enclosed terraces down to the sea, and when one wants to be gay, a motor bus flies into the centre of the town in a few minutes—price one penny."

Outside the Gates.

THE APOTHEOSIS OF SUSAN B. ANTHONY.

When it was announced on the programme of the Third Meeting of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, to be held in Copenhagen, that one session would be devoted to appreciation of the late Founder, Susan B. Anthony, one realised that it was just such an occasion at which it would be very good to be present; so I went.

The convention opened in the beautiful Concert Palais on the morning of August 7th, and every hour throughout the week has been occupied, until after a farewell supper tendered to the Delegates by the Danish Woman's Suffrage Society, we parted with heartfelt regret at one o'clock this morning.

This gathering of women suffragists from all parts of the world, has been stupendous, and has made a deep impression upon the people of this charming city, and it cannot fail to have far-reaching influence, not only in Denmark, but throughout the world.

Take the Press. Indulgent bandinage, greeted the announcement of the gathering, by the end of its deliberations the speakers, and their cause have been treated with the respect they deserve. The ladies were to come and chatter, and ask for privileges, for which they were fitted neither mentally nor physically. If it amused them, well, la la, pretty dears, let them chirp. What harm would result? The sessions opened, up rose that lovely woman, Mrs. Chapman Catt of New York, the President of the Alliance, mentally and physically the very highest type of woman, and speaking with clear logical force, her beautiful dignity enhancing the power of her eloquent words, she captured the Press right away. Those who had come to scoff, remained to bless, and the fact that the crowds of newspaper men, who have attended the meetings in large numbers, have expressed so much sympathy and appreciation in the various organs which they represent, has, in my opinion, been the great triumph of the convention.

The result is the triumph of reason over all ignoble factors.

To attempt an exhaustive report of the work of this convention would need unlimited space. Suffice it to say that the International Alliance is composed of affiliated national groups of women's societies organised to obtain the Parliamentary vote for women, bound together to help this cause all over the world. The national societies from every civilised country are here represented, the enfranchised Australians and Finns taking front rank, as citizens of their respective countries.

As the Fraternal Delegate of the International Council of Nurses I have received every courtesy and kindness, being thus enabled to get at the heart of the movement. To sit through the various sessions at which women from at least fifteen countries of the world can come on the platform and present extraordinarily intelligent reports of progress effected

previous page

next page