

The successful candidate will go into residence at King's College in October.

At a recent Meeting of the Queen's Institute of District Nursing, held at 57, Lower Belgrave Street, a picturesque scene took place, when the Earl of Athlone presided, and Lady Cahn presented Long Service Badges to Superintendents and Queen's Nurses, in recognition of 21 years' satisfactory and loyal service under the Institute. In the group here presented Miss Norah Farrant, S.R.N., is seen receiving her Badge for very valuable public work recently as Inspector of County Nursing Associations in England and Wales.

After completing her training at the London Hospital, Miss Farrant joined the Queen's Institute of District Nursing, then Queen Victoria's Jubilee Institute for Nurses. Her "Queen's Training" was taken at Inspector of County Nursing Associations in England and Wales. This post she still holds.

The chairman of the London County Council (Mr. Ernest M. Dence) will open the Council's enlarged Hackney Hospital in High Street, Homerton, on February 21, and on Friday, February 9, the new nurses' home in Bancroft Road, Mile End, will be opened by the chairman of the Central Public Health Committee (Dr. F. Barrie Lambert).

C. E. Bechofer Roberts and C. S. Forester's play, "Nurse Cavell" (which was published some time ago) is to be presented at the "Q" Theatre on Monday, February 12th, with Nancy Price in the leading part.

All the scenes are set in Brussels, and one shows the trial. The play opens in the nursing institution just before the outbreak of war, and it ends in the prison cell immediately before the execution.

We have received the Thirty-ninth Annual Report of the National League of Nursing Education, issued from the National Headquarters, 450 Seventh Avenue, New York, containing proceedings of the Convention held by the League at Chicago, Illinois, in June last. It is full of interesting and important matters and we hope to refer to it in detail in a future issue. We should, however, like to point out that in the comprehensive review by the President, Miss Effie J. Taylor, entitled "Yesterday—To-day—To-morrow," the legend which dies so hard that the International Council of Nurses had its inception at the meeting of the International Council of Women, which met in 1899 in London, finds place once again.

Brighton. After enrolment as a Queen's Nurse, she was appointed to Chatham as "Senior Nurse."

In 1912 Miss Farrant was appointed Assistant County Superintendent, Sussex County Nursing Association, for the organisation of School Nursing in East Sussex. She was later appointed Inspector of Midwives, East Sussex County Council, and Mental Deficiency Officer (under the Mental Deficiency Act, 1913) for the same county. These posts were relinquished in 1915 when she was appointed Superintendent of the Sussex County Nursing Association. As Superintendent, Miss Farrant was in charge of the Public Health Work undertaken by the District Nurses working for affiliated associations in East and West Sussex, as well as of their Nursing and Midwifery work.

Miss Farrant was appointed Inspector under the Queen's Institute in 1918, and has held the following appointments:—

The foundation of the International Council of Nurses was proposed by Mrs. Bedford Fenwick at the Annual Meeting of the Matrons' Council of Great Britain, held at 20, Hanover Square, London, on July 1st, 1899, seconded from the Chair by the President of the Council, the late Miss Isla Stewart, and supported by Miss Margaret Huxley. It would have been quite out of place to make so important a professional proposition in a General Congress of Women, and this was
