LADIES can at last boast a club for themselves entirely free from the intrusions of the opposite sex. It is called the Somerville Club, and is situate at 231, Oxford Street; the subscription is £1 10s., and after June 25th an entrance fee of 10s. will be charged. Mrs. Fleming Baxter, The Towers, Fitzjohn's Avenue, N.W., is the hon. sec. pro tem.

CORRESPONDENCE.

 We do not hold ourselves responsible for opinions expressed by our Correspondents. Brevity and conciseness will have first consideration. See notices over first page of matter.

To the Editor of "The Nursing Record."

SIR,—I am delighted with your journal, and have ordered it here. I want to join the British Nurses' Association, but there is no address given.

Yours faithfully,

Bromley College, Kent, J. BEWSHES.
April 9th, 1888.

[The address required is, "The Hon. Secretary, the British Nurses' Association, 20, Upper Wimpole Street, W."—Ed.]
