

"FRAGRANCE."

A SICK-ROOM PERFUME.

(J. PRESTON, Chemist, 4, High Street, Sheffield.)

This is a delightfully refreshing preparation used either with a spray on the handkerchief, sprinkled about the room, or in the bath or washing basin. It has not the "overpowering" odour of many so-called perfumes (including inferior Eau de Cologne), but is exceedingly delicate. It also possesses marked antiseptic qualities.

COLOGNE IN BOND STREET.

Those of our readers, who are familiar with the "4711" Eau de Cologne, will scarcely wonder at our decision in considering this the finest brand we have yet tried. It is both delicate and lasting in its aroma, and gives excellent testimony to the long practical experience and care bestowed upon its manufacture. It does credit even to so old an established firm. We understand that numerous imitations have caused this firm to change their old white Farina label to a blue and gold one, and call it the "4711" Eau de Cologne, that now thoroughly familiar number, which extends to all their preparations, and is quite a sufficient guarantee that the Toilet Vinegar is equally refreshing and pure. Many have wondered what that 4711 really means. We can inform our readers, that it is the old number of the house in the Glockengasse at Cologne, where the grandfather of the present proprietor, together with a certain Farina, established the business in 1792. For a Medicinal Soap, we find that the superfatted "Pine Needle Extract" Soap is exceedingly useful as a disinfectant, and is already greatly in favour with the medical profession, as also is the essence of "Fir Tree Needle" for fumigating purposes. Many and dainty are the toilet requisites now offered for sale at the depôt, 62, New Bond Street; but those who are perhaps debarred from paying a personal visit to select from so varied a stock, may be glad to know that the "Lily Milk Soap," for daily use, is economical and good, while the essence of "Nice Violets" is perfection. The Eau de Cologne to which we have already referred is sent packed, post free, in boxes containing six bottles, to any part of the United Kingdom, for twelve shillings and sixpence complete. All orders should be addressed to Mr. Reuter, sole agent for this country, and manager of the London depôt, 62, New Bond Street, W.

Letters to the Editor.

To the Editor of "The Nursing Record."

SIR,—I should be glad to obtain information through the medium of your columns as to where the grey tow, used in Hospitals some years ago, may be obtained in small quantities of about a stone weight. If it has been superseded, I should be glad to know what has taken its place.—I am Sir, yours faithfully,
L.
