

process which, while preserving its nutritious qualities, removes that part of the outer husk which causes irritation in the use of ordinary oatmeal. It makes most excellent gruel, and deserves to be, and doubtless will be, extensively used by Nurses, especially by those engaged in monthly work.

DAHL'S STERILIZED PURE COWS' MILK.

This represents a new departure which is of much public importance. It is well known that milk is one of the greatest conveyers of infectious disease, and that even in the pure state it rapidly becomes sour and therefore useless as an article of diet. By placing pure cows' milk in tins and sterilizing it, by the process now invented, it is not only made perfectly free from infectious germs, but can be kept for an indefinite length of time, so long as it is excluded from the air—without undergoing any change whatever. It has been tested and found that milk thus treated has retained its entire properties unaltered, for more than two years. There is a great future before this preparation, we cannot doubt; and, especially in cases when it is necessary to store milk for any length of time, we can confidently recommend that a trial should be given to Dahl's sterilized milk. Further particulars can be obtained from the Dahl Milk Company, 85, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

DISINFECTION.

This is, literally, an age of specialism, and it is, therefore, not surprising that disinfection of houses and furniture should have come to be regarded almost as a speciality. W. G. Lacy, of 82, East Hill, Wandsworth, who terms himself a professional disinfecter, is highly recommended by those who have employed him for carrying out the work which he undertakes with efficiency and thoroughness and at very moderate prices.
