

I sent for the woman of the house. I informed her that, so far as I was concerned, she need not trouble to continue her cleansing operations. I also informed her that I should make a point of notifying the facts to the nearest sanitary inspector. Whereat she reviled me in no measured terms. I found other and eminently satisfactory rooms, though I confess, until it was time to meet the afternoon train, I spent one hour searching every bye-lane near for a second hearse and mourning coach.

I have the honour to be, Madam,
Your obedient servant,
PATERFAMILIAS.

OCCUPATION FOR THE BLIND.

To the Editor of "The Nursing Record."

MADAM,—Will you allow me to inquire, through the medium of your valuable paper, whether any readers can suggest genial occupation for the blind other than Brail reading, knitting, cards, &c.? Is it possible for a blind person to play draughts?

A constant reader would be thankful for any suggestions.

ATTENDANT.

[We hope some of our readers will make suggestions.—ED.]

WOMEN SANITARY INSPECTORS.

To the Editor of "The Nursing Record."

MADAM,—Can you inform me, through your columns, as to how a Trained Nurse could become a Sanitary Inspector?

STRANGER

[Apply to the Secretary of the Sanitary Institute, Margaret Street, London, W. He will give you particulars of their curriculum of training.—ED.]
