Royal British Nurses' Association.

(Incorporated by Royal Charter.)

THE meeting of the General Council took place on Friday, the 10th of July, at the offices of the Corporation.

Present: Her Royal Highness, the President, in the chair, and about 30 medical men and Nurses. The absence of Matrons is a fact deeply to be deplored.

The following reports from the Hon. Treasurer and the Executive Committee were read and adopted.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

As your Hon. Treasurer, I beg to submit my first budget to the General Council, for the financial year ending March 31st, 1896.

The receipts on the general account, including balance at the bankers of £317 10s. 7d., have amounted to the sum of £1,218 15s. 2d. In this total are comprised donations, &c., £139 17s. 1d.; subscriptions for three years, £150 13s. 6d.; life subscriptions, £159 12s. 0d., and annual subscriptions, £271 0s. 0d.

The receipts for the Conversazione for 1895 amounted to £126 0s. 0d., and the expenditure to £112 13s. 8d., leaving the satisfactory profit of £13 6s. 4d.

The sale of badges produced the sum of £34 19s. 6d.

The expenditure for the same period amounts to the sum of £1,121 17s. 7d., which leaves the sum of £96 17s. 7d. to our credit at the bankers.

The expenditure includes legal expenses on the general business of the Association, amounting to £43 7s. 11d.; while the special expenses connected with the trial of Barlow v. Thorne and others, which Mr. Justice Stirling decided were to be paid by the Corporation, figure for no less a sum than £102 5s. 5d. The total expenses of this trial have already entailed a pecuniary loss to our Association of £155 0s. 0d., leaving still an amount due to our solicitors of about £100.

It will be seen that there is a loss of nearly £20 on the account of the educational and sessional lectures delivered during the last year, but against this there is a set-off of an excess of receipts over expenditure in 1895 of about £16 10s. 0d., leaving a deficiency on the double course of lectures of about £3 10s. 0d.

The Journal Account shows that £56 1s. 11d. have been received from advertisements, while printing, stationery and postage amounted to £160 17s. 2d., leaving an adverse balance of £104 15s. 3d., which sum has been transferred from the general account.

The Registration Account reveals an expenditure of £363 6s. 2d., and the receipts amounted to £183 6s. 2d., showing a deficit of £180, which has been transferred from the general to the Registration account.

The audited accounts show that the total amount advanced to the Registration Board for its work to the present date is £1,140.

I think this amount is represented at too high an estimate, and is due to the fact that the salaries and office expenses have been up to the present equally divided between the General Account and the Registration Account. This assessment, in my opinion, and
