REPLIES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Would-be Probationer, Belfast.—Obtain the "Nursing Directory," price 5s., from the office of the NURSING RECORD, 11, Adam Street, Strand. This will give you the information you desire.

Miss M. S., Dundee.—We are sorry that the MS. is not suitable for insertion in the NURSING RECORD. We think you need more experience in literary work than you have had.

Disappointed, London.—It is not likely that more nurses will be sent out to Greece. The war is over, and the work is naturally decreasing. We are sorry for your disappointment, but of course those nurses who knew their own minds, and who were free to leave England at once, were naturally selected. Wounded men cannot wait to be nursed while relations are considering the pros and cons of the advisability of a nurse offering her services.

Progress, Birmingham.—At the New Hospital for Women, in the Euston Road, all the medical and surgical work is done by women. No greater proof could be given of the capacity of women to act as doctors, and of the splendid way in which they have worked to demonstrate this, than the fact of the existence of this hospital.

M.R.B.N.A., Leeds.—We do not advise you to resign. Remain a member, and be true to your principles. We knew of the circumstance you mention, but it does not shake our belief that the advice which we have always given when consulted upon this subject, is the right one to take.

Staff Nurse, Birmingham.—Obtain Hoblyn's "Dictionary of Medical Terms," price 10s. 6d., published by Whittaker & Co., Paternoster Square. You will find it most useful; indeed, in our opinion, it should find a place on the bookshelves of every nurse.

M.R.B.N.A., London.—We intend to deal fully with the subject upon which you enquire in next week's RECORD; we think your suggestion is a good one.

Enquirer, Lincoln.—We should advise you to obtain three years' consecutive experience in the same hospital. It is a mistake to break up your training, as it never ranks the same as the three years' certificate of a good training school.
