CHRISTMAS GREETINGS.

AS the Christmas season comes round once more, we right heartily wish our readers a "Merry Christmas." Our greeting will come somewhat late to the many subscribers in distant countries, but we can at least assure them of our good wishes and good will, and of our knowledge that the NURSING RECORD has no more cordial supporters than its foreign readers. We value most highly the appreciative letters which from time to time find their way into our letter box from all parts of the world, and our readers, we are sure, will agree with us that the RECORD owes much of its interest to the contributions from our foreign correspondents.

To our many friends in the nursing world at home, we take this opportunity of saying that it is quite impossible for us to express the goodwill which we feel at all times, and which overflows at this season, to each of them individually. But we wish them, by means of the NURSING RECORD, the very happiest Christmas; and we also feel sure, as this Sacred Season will be spent by them largely in promoting the happiness of others, that they will have their full share of the sweetness which always emanates through the world at this time from the manger-cradle of the Holy Child, whose life on earth was one, not of enjoyment, but of the sacrifice of self for others.
