

Acland, Sir Crichton Browne, and too long a list of distinguished gentlemen for me to attempt to name. Some of us have felt indignation, and others sorrow, that we should have met with opposition, but I think we must ask ourselves, "Are our principles founded on truth and justice, and our intentions pure?" and if we can answer that conscientiously in the affirmative, then we have nothing to fear. (Applause.) And what is more, we are certain of success. (Applause.) We have nailed our colours to the mast, and there, while we quietly and steadfastly pursue the course we have marked out for ourselves, we must let them wave. (Loud Applause.) I put the resolution to the meeting. (Loud Applause.)

The CHAIRMAN: I certainly never presided in my life at a meeting in which bonnets predominated so completely, and it reminds me of another building of a very different character, in which I am in the habit of sitting every Sunday morning, and to which I hope you will soon go. In the windows of King's College Chapel you will find a most extraordinary variety of ladies' and gentlemen's hats and bonnets. You will, I think, perceive that if you wish for a new fashion—which I do not think you need, really—you will find it there. (Laughter.) That you have received the support of the Medical profession I think can be no wonder, seeing the benefit we derive from your work; indeed, that softening influence which changes the rough heart of the patient is sometimes too much even for the Medical man, and the effects of it have been very obvious in many instances in my own observation. (Laughter.)

The Members then left the Guildhall and passed over to St. John's College, meeting in the Combination Room, inspecting the library and its treasures. At one o'clock dinner was served in the Hall, the Vice-Chancellor of the University presiding. After dinner the Loving-Cup was passed round, and then all returned to the Combination Room. Here Professor Browne gave a brief but most interesting account of the history of the University and its Colleges; after which the Members, in parties of six or seven, were conducted over the chief places of interest by Fellows of the various Colleges, who had kindly volunteered their assistance. At 4.30 all met at a Garden Party, given by the Vice-Chancellor of the University in the grounds of Pembroke College; after which some visited Addenbrooke's Hospital, others joined boating parties on the river. At six, all who remained were entertained at dinner by the Vice-Chancellor and Mrs. Searle, and thereafter left by various trains for their respective destinations.

Statement of Income and Expenditure from 7th December, 1887, to 30th June, 1889, as read by Dr. Bedford Fenwick.

DR.	£	s.	d.	CR.	£	s.	d.
To Donations for Preliminary Expenses ...	51	5	0	By Preliminary Expenses, Meetings, &c. ...	49	2	4
„ Life Subscriptions—				„ Printing, Stationery, Postage, and Adver-
28 at £5 5s. ...	147	0	0	tisements ...	181	10	9
230 at £1 1s. ...	241	10	0	„ Salaries ...	90	10	0
„ Donations ...	382	2	0	„ Office Expenses ...	55	7	10
			770 12 0	„ Office Furniture ...	50	18	0
„ Annual Subscriptions—				„ Expenses of General Council
452 at 10s. 6d. ...	237	6	0	and other Meetings ...	15	4	6
2,746 at 2s. 6d. ...	343	5	0	„ Expenses of Conversazione,
			580 11 0	£185 15s. 10d.; less Re-
„ Dividend on Investments ...			6 16 6	ceipts, £180 1s. 6d. ...	5	14	4
„ Sale of Cards of Meetings ...			2 1 0				20 18 10
				„ Travelling Expenses, Provincial Deputations, &c. ...			21 14 11
				„ Investments (at cost)—
				£350 New Zealand Four per cent. Stock ...	350	18	0
				£400 Egyptian Preference
				Five per cent. Stock ...	416	10	6
							767 8 6
				„ Balance—
				At Bank ...	166	9	3
				In hand ...	7	5	1
							173 14 4
							£1,411 5 6
			£1,411 5 6				£1,411 5 6

We have examined the foregoing account with the receipt books and vouchers, and we certify that it is a full and correct statement.

4th July, 1889.

F. H. WALLER.

F. HARDY, Chartered Accountant.

previous page

next page