The Nursing Exhibit.

The majority of nurses are always interested in practical things, the very few in professional affairs, so the suggestion to have a practical nursing exhibit in May next when the members of the societies affiliated to the Provisional Committee of the National Council of Nurses hold their first annual meeting in London, seems to have met with general approval. After the Christmas festivities are over, a small Committee will be formed to carry out the scheme, and it is hoped that many Matrons and nurses not yet in affiliation with the Provisional Committee will help those who are to make the exhibit a success. St. John's House League has already taken time by the forelock, and a maternity exhibit will, we believe, be its most interesting contribution. The Committee must organise, so that there is no overlapping and waste of effort.
