We are informed by Mrs. Lucas, Lady Superintendent of the Nurses' Co-operation, 8, New Cavendish Street, W., that Miss Low, who is now in the hospital at Chambery, is holding her own, and the doctors are so far satisfied with her condition. The nurse who has gone out to her speaks of the Sisters in charge of the hospital as very kind. Miss Low's recovery must be a matter of time, as her injuries are most serious.

An English nurse, Miss Gertrude Bunting, of Nottingham, has, it is stated, been engaged by the Queen of Spain. Miss Bunting has been nurse at Mountstuart Rothesay, the seat of the Marquis of Bute, since the birth of his daughter, Lady Mary Stuart, last year.

The Wolverhampton Board of Guardians have done well in dismissing, instead of accepting the resignation of, a nurse from the infirmary staff in consequence of repeated breach of the regulations. The Chairman, Mr. W. K. Pritchard, said so serious was the breach of discipline that he should be prepared to resign his position on the Nursing Committee if the resolution to dismiss were not carried. It appears that the nurse left against the express wish of the Chairman, the Matron, and the clerk; and left her ward unattended. Mr. Pritchard held that the course proposed was lenient treatment for one who would so leave sick people. He said he intended to have the regulations carried out entirely until rescinded.

The next stage of the discussion was more pleasant. In presenting to Nurse Edith L. Corbett a testimonial for efficiency, the Chairman said it was painful to find rebellion, but encouraging to everyone to meet with such success as that of Miss Corbett. The circumstance proved that the rules and regulations were not so harsh that they could not be carried out. He complimented the recipient upon her work and success, and was pleased a Wednesfield girl had done so well.
