Mrs. Barnes, Superintendent of the "Mothers' and Babies' Welcome," gave further details of the work carried on, and other speakers were Dr. James Cantlie, Dr. Robert Hutchison, Dr. Sykes, and Mrs. Marshall, a member of the Marylebone Health Society.

We usually think of a Christmas spent in India as one of tropical heat, and forget that it is a vast territory comprising every variety of climate. The friends of Miss Hodgson, till recently a member of the Registered Nurses' Society, and now of Lady Minto's Indian Nursing Association, will be interested to see chief object in life was to make the patients as happy and as comfortable as possible. She was with them for seventeen years, and during that time no complaint was made against her, and they had a great difficulty in filling her place.

Testimony was given at the ordinary general meeting of the Higginbotham Sick Poor Nursing Association, Glasgow, of the invaluable work done amongst the sick poor in that great city. Mr. Cameron Corbett said the nurses did more than help the sick poor; they were all more or less sanitary experts, and they could not go on visiting these homes without emphasising sanitary rules and help-the accompanying picture of Kasauli, where she expects to spend her Christmas before being sent on to her destination. She writes: "It is awfully cold," and this one can well believe. The party of nurses arrived at Bombay on Friday, November 15th, and at Kasauli on the following Sunday, "after many adventures."

At the special meeting of the Governors and subscribers of the Aberystwyth Infirmary, at which Miss Emilie Evans, a member of an old Aberystwyth family, was appointed Matron, the President said that the late Matron—Miss Chandler—was an ideal one, and her

It is proposed to have a Home Nursing section in connection with the Women's Section at the National Exhibition at Edinburgh next year. Lessons will be given on home-nursing, the use of disinfectants, and other practical matters, and as it is felt that the success of the scheme depends upon the support of experts, several Matrons have been invited to join the Committee. Amongst them the Lady Superintendents of the Royal Infirmary and the Convalescent House, Murrayfield.
