

The Nurses' Champion in the House of Lords.

It is with great pleasure that we present to our readers a portrait of the Lord Ampthill, G.C.I.E., G.C.S.I., who has so successfully that order should be introduced into the honourable profession of nursing. The photograph from which our portrait is reproduced is by Russell and Sons, Baker Street, W.

For five years the Nurses' Registration Bill had been introduced into the House of Commons, once by Dr. Farquharson, and four carried the Nurses' Registration Bill, promoted by the Society for the State Registration of Trained Nurses, through the House of Lords, and thus merits the gratitude of all who desire that standards of nursing education should be established for the protection of the sick, and times by Mr. Munro Ferguson, but as a private member's Bill had no fortune in the ballot.

Then, on March 18th, Lord Balfour of Burleigh presented the Official Directory of Nurses' Bill in the House of Lords, and when his Lordship moved the second reading on May 6th,
