PRESENTATION.

Miss L. Jesper, Assistant Lady Superintendent of the Training School for Nurses at the Royal Infirmary, Liverpool, who is resigning the position, was last week presented by the past and present nursing staff with a token of their affection and regard, which took the form of a silver tea service suitably inscribed. The domestic staff also presented her with a handsome serviette ring.

It is only right that such a career as Miss Jesper's should receive fitting recognition, for through many years of unselfish work she has ever kept before herself the set purpose of striving for efficiency in the pupils under her care, and a constant consideration for the nurses as workers, and she has been a daily uplifting influence in the formation of character.

Miss Jesper began her nursing career as a pupil of Miss Pauline Peter, and her ability was quickly recognised by the late Miss Staine during the months preceding the opening of the present Royal Infirmary, Liverpool. She was appointed Assistant Lady Superintendent during Miss Bann's term of office, and we know that the late Lady Superintendent, Miss E. M. Jones, held her and her work in the highest esteem. Miss Jesper intends to resume professional work after a brief holiday.
