NURSING ECHOES.

Father Bernard Vaughan made a special. appeal at Farm Street Church on Sunday, at noon, on behalf of the Edith Cavell Homes of Rest for Nurses. We have no doubt there was. a generous response.

At a recent meeting of the Board of St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, approval was given to a new scale of remuneration and to. a proposed reduction of hours to an average. of 56 per week, to take effect from the first day of the present month.

The scheme has been decided on in spite of a diminishing income and an enormously increased expenditure-in the absence of some extraordinary income there is an estimated. deficiency of $\pounds_{13,000}$ at the end of the present. year.

It is obvious that the reduction of hours to. 56 per week is the most costly part of the. changes made. This relief in the time of duty will necessitate considerable addition to the nursing staff, and the heavier expenditure-entailed will be an increasing quantity for sometime to come.

As for the increases in pay, whereas the salaries of ward sisters were \pounds 40, advancing: by annual increments of $\pounds 5$ to $\pounds 60$ a year, the new scale commences at $\pounds 50$, and provides for increases to $\pounds 80$ a year. The salaries of the administrative sisters are somewhat higher. They were $\pounds 55$, $\pounds 65$, and $\pounds 75$, and the increases are to $\pounds 75$, $\pounds 85$, and $\pounds 90$.

Probationers undergoing training are subject at St. Mary's to an arrangement which is not common to all hospitals that train nurses, in that they take, in a lying-in institution, the special course of midwifery to qualify them for the certificate of the Central Midwives Board. They do this in the last months of their fourth year, exclusively for their own advantage, and not in any way for the benefit of the hospitalunless in the comparatively infrequent contin-gency of their subsequently becoming members of its permanent staff. In these circumstances the value of this special training is regarded as equivalent to the addition of \pounds_{21} to their total salaries during the four years of their engagement. Under the old scale the total was $\pounds 87$; it will now be $\pounds 95$.

We think we can throw a ray of light on the \cdot circumstances which have involved the new Association of Hospital Matrons, recently founded at St. Thomas' Hospital, in such an invidious position.
