

The People's Homes and the People's Money

IT has been reliably estimated by two eminent architects working independently — and their conclusions have been confirmed in practice — that for technical reasons a saving of £30 per house can be effected in new housing schemes if provision is made at the outset for the use of gas fires instead of coal grates. The "technical reasons" include the possibility of providing a much smaller flue outlet for the fires and doing away altogether with chimney breasts and chimney stacks.

Adopting this course, then, the Government might save some £15,000,000 on that amount of the people's money which they propose to lay out on the erection of the people's houses; while the tenants would further benefit by the increased floor space secured by the abolition of the bulky structures before mentioned, and by the convenience of having ready at hand, clean, economical and labour-saving gas apparatus.
