ROBINSON'S "PATENT" GROATS.

One of the most important duties of a nurse or midwife is not only to regulate the diet of a maternity patient while under her care, but to put her in the right way so that her baby shall have its rightful heritage—the milk that Nature has proportioned and adjusted to his needs.

A great aid to this end is gruel made with Robinson's "Patent" Groats, first introduced nearly a hundred years ago, and still of proved value, and a great favourite. It assists the incoming of the milk and helps to maintain the supply as well as improving its quality. It is supplied by Messrs. Keen, Robinson & Co., Ltd., London, E. 1.

CHILD WELFARE.

For the properly trained nurse the subject of child welfare offers a field capable of greater fundamental service to humanity than almost any other. She begins her service during the pregnancy of the mother. She sees under what kind of social and hygienic conditions the prospective mother is living, and notices the character of her general nutrition and the kind of food she is having. In every way possible she prepares the prospective mother to assume her new duties with a proper spirit of responsibility.—Dr. Walter Reeve Ramsey.
