

Kilburn Rise.—We know of no Hospital which admits Nurses after forty years of age. Good work is to be got in some of the Home Hospitals, where your age would not be prohibitive, and in fact would be considered an advantage by the male patients. Your sister should enter a children's Hospital—the Victoria, Queen's Road, Chelsea, or Great Ormond Street, London, W.C.

Miss Quinton.—Your letter shall appear as soon as we can find space for it.

M. E. L. (Finsbury Park).—Do not pay for your training. Nothing at present is to be gained by it. Enter a large training school as a Regular Probationer, and work for a three years' certificate. St. Bartholomew's, the Middlesex, St. George's, the Royal Free, and University College, all give excellent training.

Nurse Johnstone.—We have not had an opportunity of testing the "Lahmann" manufactures, and therefore cannot speak of their quality. But we have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Jager's, which we have thoroughly tested on more than one occasion.

Letters re "Home Hospitals" shall appear in due course. It must be understood that in all cases in which names of Homes appear they will be struck out. The object of this correspondence is to elicit the best method of organising a Home Hospital, and not for the praise or dispraise of any named Institution in general terms. Preference for the future will be given to those letters which deal with detail.

DR. KENNEEN: "We physicians can't encourage business as you tea-dealers can by offering presents to every buyer of tea." Siftings (the tea-dealer): "Oh, I don't know. You might offer a cemetery lot or a rosewood coffin to every patient who buys £10 worth of medical advice."
