Malt Extract in affections of the throat and chest, also in indigestion and nursing. Loeflund's Pure Hordeum Mait Extract is the most perfect, and the richest in diastase. Sold by Chemists; or, for particulars and samples, apply—Loeflund, 14, St. Mary Axe, London, E.C.

Editorial.

ERTAIN gentlemen have expressed their opinion that Nurses cannot manage their own affairs, without the guidance of Hospital Committees. We do them the justice to believe that they make this statement in all good faith. We point out to them that Hospital Committees are, as a rule, composed of gentlemen who are neither Nurses nor medical men, and who are simply entrusted by their fellow subscribers with the expenditure of the voluntary contributions of the public; while Nurses are members of a profession, carrying out duties which only a professional person can adequately understand, or direct. Consequently, it follows, that Nurses as possible subscribers to Hospitals are much more fitted, and indeed more entitled to judge of the manner in which these Institutions are conducted, than the lay Committees are to form an accurate opinion as to the necessities of the Nursing profession. To prove this, we intend to make a new departure, and imitate the Hospital Committees aforesaid, in going beyond the limited range of subjects to which we have hitherto confined our attention. They profess to criticise Nursing affairs. We shall attempt to criticise their financial management, and for our own self-respect we trust that our criticisms will be more to the point than theirs have thus far proved to be.

We commence with King's College Hospital, an Institution founded some fifty-two years ago. It is more than questionable if a Hospital was then, or is now, needed at all in its precise locality, Early Weaning.—For Infants deprived of their natural food Loeflund's Kindermilch is the most perfect diet; being, in physiological action and composition, a perfect substitute. Sold by Chemists, or apply—Loeflund, 14, St. Mary Axe, E.C.
