NEW YEAR, 1946.

The New Year—1946—occasions a wave of kindly feeling, and we extend to all our readers the hope that happiness will be their fortune, and as we command content by contributing to that of others, we are mainly responsible for our own serenity of mind and content is ours if we deserve it. No group of professional women have their duty more clearly defined than Registered Nurses, as none are equally privileged to serve the people from birth to death, and as life is sweet we are giving all the time. Let our aim, therefore, for 1946 be to maintain our right to serve with all the skill and efficiency possible, and to tenaciously climb higher and higher up the path of knowledge and skill. Let us hope that before the year 1946 passes into the shadows of time, we may have regained the prestige lost in 1943. With tenacity of purpose it can be done. We must do it.

A PRESS MEMORIAL TO NURSES AND MIDWIVES WHO DIED IN THE WAR.

The Nursing Mirror has inaugurated "The British Empire Nurses' War Memorial Fund," and has enlisted the support of Duchesses and other titled persons, also some leading medical men and nurse officials, and wives of Dominion magnates.

As far as we are informed nursing as a profession has not been consulted about this method of commemorating the devotion and deaths of their colleagues in the Great War, and no doubt Registered Nurses will wish to give expression to their sorrow and admiration for those who have made the great sacrifice, and will associate themselves together for this purpose in the near future. In this the National Council of Nurses of Great Britain could play its part.

The Hon. Secretary of the British Empire Fund promoted by the Nursing Mirror is Miss J. Elsie Gordon, M.A., Editor, who is not a Registered Nurse.
