to dinner in the State Hall of the Castle. This great building dominates Uppsala, resting on the top of a rocky hill. It can be seen for miles. It is an austere building of grey stone with little or no decoration. The proportions and architecture giving it a beauty of its own.

We sat down to dinner in the great hall, famous as the place where Queen Kristina had abdicated in 1654. The dinner was attended by members of the Town Council, the University and the Hospital staffs. In an address of welcome by the Governor of the County, Mr. H. Kjellman, we were given a résumé of the history of the castle and the hall in which we were dining. A short address was also given by Miss J. Bergkvist, Chairman of the Uppsala branch of the Swedish Nurses' Association. A heartfelt vote of thanks was given, on our behalf by Miss Densford, Second Vice President, I.C.N.

The dinner ended, we left the hall and climbed for the last time into the buses and were driven to the station.

What a full and wonderful day it had been. We were all very happy though a little tired. As the train left the station we waved farewell to the many nurses who had come to see us off. Everyone felt indebted to them for the splendid hospitality and warm welcome given to us. A day we shall always remember.
